GIAOOMO,

Or, "I Remember Thee."

'Mrs. Bacon ! Mrs. Bacon ! Mrs. Bacon ?' cried Mrs. de Luce.

'Yes, ma'am.'

The housekeeper started to her feet at the sound of her lady's voice.

'Missus is in a temper,' she said to herself, and smiled, and looked amiable, hoping to conciliate ; but the lady did not smile in return.

'Mrs. Bacon, my daughter is playing with a dirty little ragged boy.'

Mrs. Bacon turned red.

'Phoebe told me that there had been a child there for several days, and that you actually allowed Gladys to play with him,' continued the lady. 'I refused to believe it, but she asked me to see for myself. He is there. What does this mean, Mrs. Bacon ? Who is he ?'

'My first cousin's second wife's aunt by marriage's daughter, ma'am——' began Mrs. Bacon.

'This boy !' gasped Mrs. de Luce. 'This boy is that ?'

"'No, ma'am,' said Mrs. Bacon, plucking up spirit. 'I only said that my first cousin's second wife's aunt by marriage's daughter lets lodgings since she was a widow, left with a house of her own; and one of them died with a week's rent owing, a fortnight ago, and this was his child ; and, as for sending it to the poor-house, who could have the heart ? and I thought I'd have him in my room a bit; and he'll do anything you bid him ; and Miss Gladys just run in; and though shabby, he is not dirty; and I've given those old clothes master said I might have for any poor person, to be made up for him; and——'

'I fail to understand you, Mrs. Bacon,' exclaimed Mrs. de Luce. 'If the lodger died, I'm sure it is to be lamented. But why should Gladys be set to play with the child ? Send the boy away at once, and tell him never to come again. He looks like a foreigner.'

'I believe his pa was Eyetalian,' said Mrs. Bacon; 'but as good a boy, and—'

'Call Gladys and send the boy away!' interrupted Mrs. de Luce. 'Really, Mrs. Bacon, I thought you could be trusted.'

For one moment it occurred to the housekeeper that it would be delightful to give a month's warning and speak her mind; and, to do her justice, it was rather because she loved little Gladys so well, than because of her good salary that she refrained.

Mrs. de Luce swept out of the room and entered her carriage ; the housekeeper bustled into the little room she called her parlor.

A fair-haired girl, and a dark but beautiful boy were sitting opposite each other on little benches. The boy was singing a song.

'Listen ! it is so pretty,' cried the other child, with her blue eyes shining so pretty !'

'Yes, it's lovely,' said Mrs. Bacon. 'And now I'll give you each a bit of cake, and then Giaoomo must run away. Your ma dosen't like you to play with the little boys, she's just told me. So you'd better not come again, Gia.'

'Can't he play with me anymore ?' sobbed Gladys. 'Oh, he must—he must !'

'I shall be so sorry not to come here,' said the boy, wiping away a tear ; 'but I will go nowhere where they don't want me.'

'You're a little gentleman, if you are poor,' said Mrs. Bacon. 'And it's not me, Gia; I'd like you to stay here, poor boy !'

'No one wants me,' said the cnild. 'Mrs. Garth dosen't; I heard her say so. And I will never go to the poor-house—never !'

'You might get to be cash-boy,' Mrs. Bacon said; 'or you could sell papers.'

'I could do one thing,' said the boy, 'if I had a violin I could play on it; but I have none. I could go to places I know, and play, and they would give me money. I play well enough.'

'A little creature like you !' cried Mrs. Bacon. 'Well, I never !'

'I have a violin,' said Gladys. 'It is all my own. My poor Uncle William gave it to me before he died—that and his music-books. I shall never learn the violin. Mamma says the piano is right for girls. So I will give you that. Uncle would like it, because then you can earn money.

Gladys ran away. Up in the nursery the violin lay, on an upper shelf. After some teasing, the nursemaid consented to leave the fluting of her own caps for a moment and get it down.

Then, in the housekeeper's room, the boy proved his skill.

'Such a little creature to play tunes!' cried the housekeeper. 'Now kiss and say good-bye,' she said.

Gladys began to sob.

'Good-bye,' said Giaoomo. 'Sometimes, when everyone is asleep, I will come and play on the pavement before your house. Listen, that you may know it is I. I will always begin with this tune. It is a song, called "I Remember Thee."

He played it over and over again.

'I shall not forget it,' said Gladys.

The boy sighed and lifted his lips to those of the housekeeper ; then he kissed the little white hand of Gladys, and was gone.

For a long time Gladys used, now and then, to be awakened from her sleep by the sound of a violin. Listening, she would hear the air—"I Remember Thee."

'It is Giaoomo,' she would say. And tears would fall upon her pillow to think of the child alone in the dark midnight streets.

At last he came no more.

'Come here, little fellow,' a musician had said to him, one night. 'You are a genius. And, in the name of Heaven, how do you come by such a violin?'

Then he had talked to the boy, and it had ended in his taking him abroad with him. He had called to see Mrs. Bacon, to tell her what had happened ; but she was away, and the servant did not think it worth while to remember his message.

Fifteen years had passed. In a little room, in a small suburban house, sat an old woman and a young one. No one who had ever seen Mrs. Bacon could have failed to recognize her, though she had aged considerably. The girl was Gladys de Luce.

Strange things had happened since those old days when Mrs. Bacon was her mother's housekeeper. That mother, left a widow, had married a rascal, who had wasted her fortune, and finally broken her heart.

Gladys had found Mrs. Bacon her only friend. The old woman had taken her little savings and kept a modest home for them both in this little cottage, while Gladys gave lessons on the piano to young children.

She was no genius, but had had good masters, and taught patiently.

To-night she was busy trimming a pretty though simple bonnet for evening wear. Two tickets had been given her for a grand affair. A violinist, said to be unequaled, was to appear for the first time in Philadelphia, and tickets were utterly beyond her reach ; but the bachelor uncle of one of her pupils had given her two, which he had intended to use, but could not, being obliged to leave town on business.

'It was so kind,' said Gladys, 'and we shall enjoy the music, I know. Oh, Aunty Bacon, do you remember little Giaoomo ? I believe he was a genius. I wonder what became of the sweet little fellow.'

'I wish I knew,' said Mrs. Bacon. 'I do, indeed. I hope it was no harm. He was a good little fellow, and he might have stayed in that big house. His meals would never have been missed by anyone; but your ma wasn't very apt to take to poor folks.'

So they talked over the past, and Gladys felt herself on the verge of tears as she recalled the memory of those nights in which she was awakened in her warm bed to hear the little violinist playing "I Remember Thee" in the cold street below her window. She had never heard anyone else play that air in all her life.

The night of the concert came. Gladys, chaperoned by Mrs. Bacon, took her place in the large room, filled with fashionable women and men of society. The lights were bright, the dresses elegant. Great pots of plants adorned the stage. Beyond hung a rich drapery of cream-colored velvet. It formed an exquisite background for the splendid figure and beautiful dark face of the great musician as he advanced towards the foot-lights.

He played; none who heard him ever forgot. Thunders of applause filled the hall. He played again amidst a rapture of silence. Encore followed encore.

In reply to one of these he stepped forward and turned his face towards the seats in which Gladys and her old friend sat—his eyes met those of the girl across the heads of the other listeners, and suddenly she heard music like a revelation from an angel's heart, so sweet, so low, so tender.

Not the less great for its simplicity was that to which the audience now listened ; they did not know the name of the composition, but Gladys knew. She had heard it in the street below her window many a winter night. It was the tune little Giaoomo had bidden her keep in mind—"I Remember Thee." Yes, he had remembered, for he saw her—he was playing it to her, and this was Giaoomo.

Shortly after, an usher brought Mrs. Bacon a card. It was from the great violinist, begging them to remain seated after the performance.

That night as they drove through Chestnut, Broad and Walnut streets, to their humble abode in his carriage, he held a hand of each.

'But for your gift, I never should have been what I am,' he said to Gladys ; and then he spoke of the old times, of the little cakes Mrs. Bacon had given him, and of the kindness which had kept him from suffering when he was left an orphan. 'Did you ever hear me play beneath your window ? he asked Gladys ; and she answered :

'Oh yes ; I have always remembered how I used to cry for you there in the lonely street.'

'Poor little fiddler !' said the great man. 'I can hardly believe it was I ! Yet here beats the same heart ; and remember, it is to you I owe all.'

* * * * *

Well, reader, you know how this story ends just as well as I do. Imagine the wedding, and make it as splendid as you please, only I will tell you this much : In the elegant home to which Signor Giaoomo conducted his bride, there was a place of honor for good Mrs. Bacon. —Munyon's Illustrated World.

OUT ON STRIKE.

'Little one, little one,' said he, 'it is come to this at last.'

Nancy could but partly understand him. She was so wee, only four, and this speech of father's puzzled her. The little one was motherless. Quite two years ago they laid her mother to rest in the lonely churchyard, and now the grass grown mound was a haunt of spring's first daisies, and by strange chance a few frail snowdrops lifted their heads above the swad.

'It is come to this at last !' sighed Ned.

'What at last ?' asked Nancy.

'That there's no help for it. Father must—must go.' Ned broke down with sobs.

'Go where ?' asked Nancy.

'Far away—away to look for work, my darling.'

'Without me ?'

'Yes, even without you; and, childie, I could better bear death than this parting.' Ned turned away to hide his tears from Nancy's gaze.

'Don't cry, father,' she said. And the poor wee one had not tasted aught but dry crusts for many days ; besides which, they failed to keep fire now. So the room was cold and comfortless, and Ned's Nancy was starving. But oh ! the wee darling's patience.

'It seems as though she knew all about it,' said Ned to himself.

'Don't cry,' said Nancy, soothingly, 'but come by the fireside an' sit on your chair, take me on your knees, and I'll tell you what we'll do.'

So Ned took her.

'Father,' she said, looking up into his face, and, with her glance, a heaven of light seemed to fill her father's heart. 'Father, we must sell the chair, and—and sell Bob the cat, and——'

Tears choked Nancy's utterance. She could better spare the chair than her cat. 'There,' she exclaimed, dashing her tears away, 'I mustn't cry, for I'm a big girl now.'

Ned clasped her closely to him.

'Well, father,' added Nancy, 'if we sold the chair (it was their last piece of furniture,) and—and Bob, we'd have enough money to go.'

'Where ?' asked Ned.

'To Heaven,' replied Nancy. 'There's bread in Heaven. Dosen't our hymn say so, an' that would feed us till we'd want no more.'

With that Nancy tried to sing the hymn, and she never knew the anguish of heart which seized her father.

'Bread !' he gasped. Ned bowed his head. Poverty—merciless, cruel poverty—and the helplessness that comes with the want of food, caused the strong man to tremble and weep like a child. A man 'on strike' in the face of myriads of unemployed, a man whose life, even though honest, temperate and upright, was not worth living, how could he look upward ?

'Nay,' he muttered ; 'I have cried aloud to the walls, 'Give me bread or I die,' and nobody has heard. I have pleaded for her, ay ! and to no purpose. The rich heed not, the poor are often merciless and jealous of their fellows ; and who cares that one grave more shall be dug, in yone churchyard, even though two be put in it one morning ? Let us sleep and die—and wake.'

'Where ?' asked Nancy.

'Wake,' repeated Ned, as one in a dream. 'Wake—where ?'

'Yes,' said Nancy ; 'in Heaven, I s'pose.'

That was enough. The factory hand among the trees turned to the open door. Far out from over the hills a gleam of sunshine darted down into the valleys, and, at the same moment, a sunbeam entered Ned's wintry-cold heart and cheered it. Ned took courage, comforted by his wee one's words. Better days came for Ned's Nancy, but her father never forgot the dark days when he was out 'on strike.'—Munyon's Illustrated World.

A Journey in a Coffin.

A Boston correspondent of the New York Tribune writes : 'Do I remember any incidents of the underground railroad that haven't got into print ?' said an old abolitionist and slave-rescuer the other night in response to a question : 'Well, there is one story that I don't remember to have seen in the books or the papers. In 1859, just in the height of agitation, S——, our agent at Columbia, S. C., had occasion to ticket a middle-aged negro, Job Vancey by name, through to Providence, R. I., by the underground. Job had sheltered a runaway in his cabin and had been betrayed by another negro. He learned the situation and came into Columbia in the middle of the night. There was no hope of concealing him. Our agent had thought of a new means of shipment that he had never tried. This was his opportunity to try it, for Job was clear grit, strong with the well-knit strength of middle age, and patient as his namesake.

'S—— got a large coffin that he kept for the emergency, and into this coffin he put poor Job, and with him a quantity of crackers, cheese, dried meat and a rubber bag full of water. A few gimblet holes admitting air. On the first train the next morning Job Vancey went off, shipped as a corpse to a chosen address in Providence. Trainmen were general respectful of the dead in those days, and Job traveled comfortable for a time, barring the hours that he occasionally lay on some depot platform in the broiling southern sun. Travel was slow, and sometimes the treatment was a little rough. Job after a day or so began to get exceedingly lame with the confinement and pressure, his grim berth grew irksome, but it was when the loud shouts and laughter of his own kind died away around him, and when that and the sickening chill came over him when they dumped him one night on the stone floor of a cold baggage-room somewhere told him that he was in the north, and he began to suffer. The mere consciousness that he was in the north might have buoyed him up, however, if it had not been for one dreadful circumstance.

'There was a sort of a faint gleam around him that told that it was day, and he must have been in New York, for he says that he knew that he had been carried across some water by the sensation of rising and falling that he had felt. He had felt himself rattled along in a wagon, too, and the wagon had brought up in a place where he had heard the clatter and the roar of trains again. His coffin was dragged violently out of the wagon and when his bearers put him down they stood the coffin against a wall—on his head. Job began to feel the blood rushing to his head. He felt that he was lost, and would die, but he dared not shout for help, as that would mean discovery, a delivery to his owners, and worse than death. Better die there ; even a horrible death from torture, than be carried back to his master's plantation. He clung to the determination, but at last felt his weakened senses give way. His consciousness, after minutes of agony, which seemed hours, was lost.

'When he recovered Job had actually arrived at Providence and his newfound friends—better friends than he had ever known—were using their best endeavors to restore him. In a few days he was able to step out into the world, in a home in a chosen village, a free man.'

He Fired Up.

He had been courting a West End girl for a long time, but he has quit now. It happened Sunday night after church. They were sitting as close together as the sofa would permit. She looked with ineffable tenderness into his noble blue eyes.

'George,' she murmured, with a tremor in her voice, 'didn't you tell me once you would be willing to do any great act of heroism for my sake ?'

'Yes, Fannie, and I gladly reiterate that statement now,' he replied in confident tones. 'No noble Roman of old was fired with a loftier ambition, a braver resolution than I.'

'Well, Goorge, I want you to do something real heroic for me.'

'Speak, darling; what is it ?'

'Ask me to be your wife. We've been fooling long enough.'

The sequel is stated in the preface.

In a Hurry.

Horace was standing in the upper hall one day doing something which his mother disproved of and ordered stopped. He continued at it after one or two prohibitions, and finally she started toward him. He darted toward the stairway and down the stairs with such haste that he went two, three and four steps at a time, and landed in a heap on the floor. Gathering himself up, he managed to climb upon a chair, and sat there puffing and panting until his frightened mother reached him, when he was just able to gasp out : 'Mother, you oughtn't—to—hurry me so !'

SENORITA LOPEZ.

THE HANDSOMEST FEDERAL SPY.

When the Senorita Maria Lopez made her appearance in Atlanta during the siege she created a decided sensation among the gallant officers who were fighting all day and dancing all night. The senorita was pretty. Her flashing eyes seemed to look right through a man, and her manner of fluttering a fan was too eloquent for anything. Just where the Senorita Lopez came from no one knew. She said that her father, a New Orleans refugee, was in Richmond, and that in returning from a visit to friends in Charleston she had received instructions to await his arrival here. Of course this explanation was satisfactory, and if there had been any doubt the young lady's glittering diamonds, bright eyes, and ardent Confederate principles would have won the day.

We were not entirely given over to sackcloth and ashes during the siege. Balls and receptions took place almost every night, and there were various amateur entertainments. In all the festivities of the time the charming Spanish senorita bore her part. She was the acknowledged belle of the siege and her almost reckless daring completely fascinated the officers, from the general down. One thing about Maria Lopez delighted us. Federal shells had no terrors for her, and when other ladies shrieked and ran off unceremoniously from their visitors to plunge into a bomb-proof, this brilliant and fearless creature would simply clap her hands and make some scornful remark about the wretched aim of the Yankee gunners. After our fortifications around the city had been nearly completed, the senorita rode out nearly every day with some of her military admirers to view the works. This was rather perilous. Stray bullets and shells were always whizzing by, and it was a common thing to see a general or a colonel dodge behind a tree. But it was soon noticed that the senorita never even ducked her proud little head. She would sit on her horse like a statue, and laugh in derision when her escorts proved themselves unable to stand the racket.

"Oh, I would give anything to be a soldier !" she said one day, after looking through Colonel Blank's field glass. "I would glory in the opportunity of showing men how to fight and die for a great cause."

Perhaps this was too intense, too bombastic, but in those days everything that we wrote and spoke was in this fervid strain. So the senorita's talk provoked no comment, except a tribute of admiration.

One day our heroine passed me at a gallop on her way back from the breastworks. Something white fluttered down from her riding habit. I picked it up, but the lady was out of sight, riding like the wind. Thoughtlessly I allowed the paper to come open. What I saw troubled me not a little. I saw traced out in detail the plan of fully of our forts and trenches. The paper also contained the location of certain Government buildings, and an estimate of our forces.

There was but one thing to do. I hated to get a pretty woman into trouble, but I had to do my duty. In an hours time the paper was in the hands of the provost-marshal. The next day I was brought face to face with Maria Lopez. The hearing was in private, and a circle of colonels and Majors sat around the accused, frowning at me as if I had been guilty of some criminal act. When I related the circumstances attending the finding of the paper, the little Spaniard looked at the officers with a merry smile.

"I think," said she, "that you don't care to hear from me. I will say however, that I never saw the paper, and therefore could not have dropped it. The young man perhaps found it, but he could not have seen me drop it." She smiled sweetly on the provost-marshal.

"Ahem !" said that individual. "There must be some mistake here. We do not doubt your fidelity, sir, but we had better hear no more of this."

I was dumbfounded and abashed. Knowing very little about the ways of the world, I hastily retired, thanking my stars that I had saved my head. In a day or two the Senorita Lopez disappeared. Her lovers did not have time to mourn her loss, because Slocum's corps crossed the Chattahoochee, and our forces had to get out in a hurry. But I was destined to see the senorita again.

Many of us failed to follow Hood's army south. We were whirled about in such a vortex of confusion that we were glad to escape with our lives. Among other flotsam and jetsam I was thrown beyond the Federal lines. Stranded in Nashville, at that time a vast military camp, felt badly enough. I could not go South, and I could not get a pass to go North. One night I went to the theatre. During one of the scenes there was a buzz, and people stood up to look at a man in the dress circle just above my head. Finally I rose, as somebody said :

"He is the most successful guerilla and spy on the Union side."

I stood up until my face was on a level with the railing of the dress circle.

It was a wonder that I didn't faint !

Looking calmly, mockingly, into my eyes was the handsomest man I ever saw. He was dressed in a glittering uniform, and wore diamonds. That clear cut, dark face, those burning eyes, the slight scar under the left ear—there could be no mistake.

I seized my overcoat and rushed out of the door just in time to hear the alleged Senorita Lopez say in a voice like a bugle :

"Arrest that man."

A wave of darkness came over me. An officer caught me by the arm. I felt that I was lost. If the senorita was not only a man, but an enemy, I had no mercy to hope for.

There was a sudden tumult, a wild cry of fire, and then a crowd surged down the stairway. When I picked myself up the officer who had arrested me lay on the sidewalk with a fractured skull. I limped quietly away, and took the out-going train for Louisville. I had no passport and trusted to luck.

"Passes, gentlemen," shouted a sleepy lieutenant, as he passed through the car. I kept my head bowed down, with my hat over my eyes.

"See here, show your pass," said the officer.

A gruff man behind me spoke up and said :

"You don't want to see it twice. He showed it to you a minute ago."

"Beg pardon," said the soldier, slightly confused. He went on, and I was safe at last.

I have never seen the senorita since, and I have no desire ever to meet her, or rather him, again. He would have had me shot as a spy beyond a doubt if it had not been for my lucky escape at the theatre.

Stealing an Invention.

A little more than 100 years ago the manufacture of steel may be said to have had a beginning in England. About that time there was living in Sheffield, Eng., a man by the name of Huntzman. He was a watch and clock maker, and he had so much trouble in getting a steel that would answer for his springs, he determined to make some steel himself. He experimented for a long time in secret, and after many failures he hit upon a process that produced a superior quality of steel. The best steel to be obtained at that time was made by the Hindoos, and it cost in England about $50,000 a ton; but Huntsman's steel could be had for $500 a ton, and as he found a ready market for all the steel he could make he determined to keep his inventions secret, and no one was allowed to enter his works except his workmen, and they were sworn to secrecy. But other iron and steel makers were determined to find out how he produced the quality of steel he made and this is how they accomplished it at last : One dark and bitter cold wintry night a wretched looking beggar knocked at the door of Huntsman's works and asked shelter from the storm that was raging without. The workmen, pitying the supposed beggar, gave him permission to come in and find warmth and shelter near the furnaces. In a little while the drowsy beggar fell asleep, or at least seemed to do so, but beneath his torn and shabby hat his half-shut eyes watched with eager intent every movement made by the men about the furnaces, and as the charging of the melting pots, heating the furnaces, and at last pouring the steel into ingots took several hours to accomplish, it is hardly necessary to add that the forgotton beggar slept long, and, as it seemed, soundly, in the corner where he lay. It turned out afterward that the apparently sleeping beggar was a well to-do iron maker living near by, and the fact that he soon began the erection of large steel works similar to Huntsman's was good evidence that he was a poor sleeper but a good watcher.

A Client Demands Protection.

A few days ago, in the District Court, a prisoner, who had been defended by one of our young lawyers (who had been appointed by the court) received the highest penalty the law allows for horse stealing, fifteen years.

After the verdict was announced this lawyer was observed to speak excitedly to his client, whereupon the client stood up and told the judge that he looked to him for protection.

His Honor, Judge Noonan, replied that the sheriff would see that his rights were not interfered with.

'But that is not what I mean,' urged the prisoner.

'What do you mean ?' inquired the judge, kindly.

'I want you to protect me. This young man you 'pinted to defend me says he is gwine to ask you to give me a new trial, and I want you to protect me, judge.'

And now that young lawyer tells people that he won't defend pauper criminals without being paid for it not even if Judge Noonan sends him to jail for refusing.—Siftings.

THURSDAY, MAY 13TH, 1886.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

POWDERLY, the head of the Knights of Labor, is a sworn enemy to the liquor traffic, and states in an address bearing on temperance that the paths of the whiskey man and that of the honest, industrious workman lie in opposite directions.

MORE than 9000 bills were introduced in the forty-ninth congress thus far, of which 7200 were brought before the house alone. At this rate the number of bills may swell to 20,000 before the 49th congress closes its sessions. Most of these bills are of a private nature, referring to pension and other claims. Many of them, after their first appearance are not heard of anymore, a fact not to be regretted in most instances.

AT FIRST the Cleveland Administration was severely censured, principally by the Republican press, on account of being so slow in accomplishing a decrease of the public debt. But soon it became evident that the complaint was premature and now it is reported from Washington that the country's debt in the month of April was reduced by a round eleven million dollars. Such is democratic economy and modesty—few words and much work.

THE Turco-Grecian War now seems a settled affair and the Grecian populace are very enthuiastic over the fact. All the foreign ministers, except the Russian representative, have received orders from their respective countries to embark for their homes. The European powers have given orders to their fleets to blockade the Greek ports and Greek troops are being hurried to the front with all possible speed. The movements of the Turkish army threaten to make Thessaly the scene of the first warlike operations Greece with an army of 150,000 men against 400,000 Turks, apparently stands no chance in licking the Mohammedans, but the indications are that Greece will have a strong ally in one of the other powers. When the swords of the two armies have fairly opened the contest, the question who is backing Greece in this uneven fight, will become clearer.

THE anarchists of Chicago and other western cities will have ample time now to ponder over the vast difference between communism and orderly strikes. While the latter is tolerated with a view of final satisfactory settlement between employers and employes, the former is an outright violation of American laws, and hotheaded foreigners would as well be made to learn that they will not be allowed to do as they please, even if this is a free country. The laws of the land must be respected and obeyed at all hazzards. If it were otherwise American industries and homes would be the targets of lawless and unprincipled outcasts and the safety and peace of this great continent would continually be at the mercy of revengeful and furious mobs. It is to be hoped that these disturbers of the peace will learn a lesson which they will not forget for some time to come.

IF THE labor agitations do not bear any fruit in the election of representatives to Congress and to the State Legislatures in November they may be set down as practically fruitless. There is no legitimate method of remedying public grievances in this country except by action at the ballot-box. The ballot is to other means of effective agitation what the Gatling gun is to single-shooting weapons; and the laborers are to other voters what the Gatling is to single-shooters. They have everything in their own hands, without the trouble of agitating or binding themselves together in oath-bound leagues.—Phila. Record.

Wolfe as a Prohibition Candidate.

The Prohibition leaders in Philadelphia are earnestly talking of nominating Charles S. Wolfe for Governor. Should this occur the Democrats believe that it will give their candidate a good chance to slip in. Daniel M. Leeds says that he has been in correspondence with Mr. Wolfe in relation to the subject, and he believes that if the nomination comes unanimously he will accept it. It is believed that he will draw considerable strength from each of the great parties. Mr. Wolfe is quoted as having said that he can no longer remain in the Republican party and that he has declared himself for the Prohibition party.

Over Two Thousand Feet Long.

Washington, May 10.—Representative Morrow has received a monster petition from the Knights of Labor of California. It is over 2,000 feet long and contains the names of over 50,000 persons. It prays for action on the part of Congress to forever prohibit the further immigration of Chinese to the United States.

Miscellaneous News.

A carload of oil on the Lehigh Valley Railroad took fire at White Haven last Friday, and resulted in the burning of eleven other cars in the same train.

A little New Haven girl met with a peculiar accident. She had a slate pencil in her mouth about 5 inches in length, and falling forward forced the point of the pencil into the back of the throat, puncturing a large blood vessel. The little victim bled to death in 10 minutes.

Mormon Emissaries in Switzerland

London, May 7.—Mormon missionaries are in Switzerland inducing girls to emigrate to Utah, promising them happiness and prosperity. Some that have already been victimized write from Utah bitterly bewailing their fate.

CULTIVATION AND REFINEMENT.—Hon. B. S. Hewitt, ex-Speaker House Representatives, writes:

"J. A. McDonald.

Dear Sir:—I have been buying my flavoring Extracts for years from a Pittsburg manufacturer. Recently we tried a bottle of yours and found it very good indeed. Enclosed find five dollars. Send me its value in your Vanilla Extract.

Moral.—Always ask for McDonald's Flavoring Extracts.

Millionaire DuBois' Funeral.

DuBois, Pa., May 8.—The funeral of John DuBois, the millionaire lumber merchant, this afternoon, was attended by four thousand people. George A. Jenks had charge of the ceremonies. Business in the town was entirely suspended. His death occurred on the 5th instant.

—INCREASED buoyancy of spirits, perfect assimilation of food, improved appetite, gain in flesh, sound refreshing sleep, heightened color in the cheeks and lips, added brilliancy to the eyes, follows the use of McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative. A bottle or two used in the family would obviate the entire train of spring maladies. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.

Jay Gould in the Express Business.

Cleveland, O., May 9.—The announcement is made here that the United States Express Company, which has operated since 1854 on the New York, Lake Erie and Western and New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio Railroads, will on Saturday next, at the expiration of its yearly contract, be superseded by the Pacific Express Company on those lines and their branches. The Pacific Express Company is controlled by Jay Gould, who, it is said, desires by means of the Erie to gain an eastern outlet for the express business of his Southwestern system.

A Call for the Knights to Assemble.

Baltimore, May 9.—General Master Workman Powderly, of the Knights of Labor, has issued a call to the various assemblies for a special session of the General Assembly to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, Tuesday, May 25. The reasons for the calling of the session are the increasing membership of the order, the fact that the laws relating to boycotting are wholly inadequate to coerce assemblies; that the laws governing strikes do not give the General Executive Board power to interfere until after strikes are inaugurated, and, lastly, that the order has become involved in difficulties with trade societies and that an effort is being made to create a rupture between these societies and the Knights.

Will Not Travel With Superintendent Higbee.

General Louis Wagner, Inspector of Soldier's Orphans' Schools, is arranging a schedule for a tour of inspection of the schools. The official year closes June 1, and he has been notified that the accounts and reports of the White Hall School will be ready by May 18, those at Mansfield by May 20, and Dayton by May 22 Recently Superintendent Higbee sent out a circular giving the dates of the examinations which he will conduct at the several schools, beginning at Uniontown on Monday May 10th, and closing with the Soldiers' Orphan's Institute in this city on June 23. General Wagner said that he would not travel about with Superintendent Higbee nor visit the schools on the same dates, as the latter's visits were always occasions for dress parades.

The Chicago Terrorists Thoroughly Cowed and Subdued.

Chicago, May 9.—There were no Socialistic doctrines preached to-day on the lake front, which place for years has been the rendezvous of the murderers now in custody. Heretofore no attempt to disperse such gatherings has been made, but from now on those caught making incendiary harangues will be escorted to the nearest lamp-post. The lake front is a large tract of land situated on the South Side. It is a beautiful place, and has been set aside by the city for honest people to loiter in on holidays and enjoy the breezes from the great inland sea, but for the past 10 years it has been thronged by Anarchists on the Sabbath, and to-day was the first time in a decade that law-abiding citizens were given an opportunity to enjoy themselves without having their ears assailed with denunciatory epithets against the stars and stripes.

Arrivals at Castle Garden.

New York, May 9.—The arrivals yesterday at Castle Garden were the steamships Edam, from Amsterdam, with 182 passengers; the Fulda, from Bremen, with 345 passengers, and the City of Richmond, from Liverpool, with 850 pasengers. The total arrivals were 1,377.

Rain and Hail at Huntingdon.

Huntingdon, Pa., May 10.—One of the heaviest storms ever known here passed over this county at 7 o'clock this morning. Rain and hail fell furiously for half an hour accompanied by thunder and lightning. The streets for a short time were as white as after a light fall of snow. The storm seemed to be heavier to the northward than at this city, and it is feared that much damage was done in the rural districts and especially to the growing wheat and the apple trees which are in full blossom.

A Group of Socialists Arrainged.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 9.—Nineteen Socialists and Anarchists, including Paul Grottkau, Frank Hirth, Carol Simon, and Gustav Rossier, the ringleaders, were arrainged before Judge Mallory yesterday on a charge of riot and conspiracy to kill and murder. Bail in each case was fixed at $5,000, and all of the prisoners were remanded to jail. It is expected that the Grand Jury, which meets on May 18, will indict a large number of others, including many well-known persons. The number to be indicted is estimated at over 100. Order now prevails and no more outbreaks are anticipated.

The Missouri Pacific Strike.

St. Louis, May 9.—Three members of the Congressional Labor Investigating Committee, Messrs. Curtin, Burns and Stewart, who arrived in this city from the West on Friday night, met yesterday and continued the examination of witnesses in regard to the causes and effects of the Southwestern labor troubles. Mr. Kochtizky, State Labor Commissioner, said that the Knights of Labor could not expect official recognition from any one, for they were not incorporated. He supposed that the expense incurred by the Knights of Labor in conducting the strike had been about $1,000,000, and suggested that Mr. Hall, whose discharge caused the strike, could have been supported for a much less sum, and no strike would have been necessary.

Coal Wrecks on the Ohio.

$30,000 Damage Done at Pittsburg by a Runaway Barge.

Pittsburg, May 9.—Thirty thousand dollars' worth of property in coal barges was sunk in the Monongahela river between Dam No. 1 and the Point Bridge at a quarter to six this evening. The wrecks, however, are strewn along both the Monongahela and Ohio rivers for several miles. The cause of the disaster was the sudden and rapid rise in the river. The coal men were looking for high water, but it came sooner than they had expected. At 5.30 o'clock this morning a fuel flat, which had broken from its moorings somewhere up the river, came drifting rapidly down the swiftly running stream, which was rising at the rate of six inches an hour. Just below the dam it struck a fleet of twelve barges, belonging to the Marmet Coal Company, of Cincinnati. The force of the shock was so great that the lines were parted and the entire tow started down the river.

Before the runaways had gone far they enountered twenty barges, belonging to O'Neill & Co., and farther down three barges of the Birmingham Coal Company and one each of Brown & Sons and Sneather & Wilson. The steamboats Alarm, Fred Wilson and Dippold started in pursuit, but they only saved eleven barges. The other twenty seven were sunk and their contents strewn along the river.

Twenty-five Persons Killed and a Large Number Injured at Kansas City by a Terrible Tornado.

Kansas City, May 11.—A fearful storm of wind and rain swept over this city to-day, continuing from 11 o'clock until noon, causing a terrible loss of life. The court house was totally demolished above the second story. The Lathrop school building on Eighth street was partially wrecked and many children were caught in the ruins, a number being killed. An overall factory on Second street was blown down, as was the old water works building. One span at the north end of the railroad bridge across the Missouri River was blown into the river, blocking the Hannibal and St Joseph, Rock Island, Wabash and Kansas City, St. Joe and Council Bluffs Roads. Of the four buildings wrecked all were more or less unsound. The school building has been twice condemned, and the Court House, by many, was considered unsafe. No one was killed except in these four houses.

The storm, though entailing so heavy a loss of life, was nothing of the nature of the tornado that visited the city three years ago. It was a violent wind accompanied by a flood of water and some hail, which turned many streets into rivers. Signs, shutters, chimneys, &c., were blown with the gale, and a number of vehicles were overturned in the streets. The black clouds that rolled over the city created almost the darkness of night, and made the timid ones crouch in terror in their cellars. The streets were entirely deserted, and in some instances horses were seen wandering about attached to vehicles and seeking refuge from the pelting storm. Telephone and telegraph wires being down increased greatly the difficulty in getting early and reliable information.

The Millheim Journal.

THURSDAY, MAY 13TH, 1886.

Published by R. A. BUMILLER.

TO THE LADIES

of Millheim & Vicinity.

I wish to call your attention and invite your inspection of the elegantly trimmed and neatly made line of just received at my place, next door to E. C. Campbell's residence, on Main Street.

Hats, Bonnets, Lace Caps, etc. etc.

REMEMBER

that my styles and prices suit all and that I constantly keep on hand a full stock of

Laces, Ribbons, Feathers, Flowers, Pin Ornaments, and everything necessary for trimmings.

☞ Call on me if in need of any millinery goods and you will not regret it.

Respectfully,

Lydia C. Brumgard.

LOCAL NEWS.

—Fresh Fish at Kauffman's store.

—Picnic talk will soon begin to blossom.

—First-class job work done at the JOURNAL office.

—The fine spring weather brought out a large number of promenaders on Sunday.

—Read B. O. Deininger's "Safe Pointers" in our advertising columns this week.

—John F. Heckman, of Penn Hall, was a welcome caller at this office on Tuesday morning.

—There will be two comets visible this month—to those who care to lose any sleep for the sight.

—Miss Mabel Musser left on Monday afternoon's train to spend a week among Mifflinburg friends.

—The framework of J. W. Stover's new store room on Main street is up and will soon be under roof.

—The northern light illumed the sky on Saturday night and many gazed in wonder upon the grand spectacle.

—Our Seersuckers are decidedly leaders for beauty and price. Come and see. D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—Rev. M. I. Jamison and wife are in town visiting among relatives and friends, and they have a host of them here.

—A. J. Harter is improving his property on Penn street by erecting a neat wire fence around the front of the house.

—The newly arranged show window of the Journal Store was the chief attraction of pedestrians on Penn street last Saturday.

—Dr. J. F Harter has been sodding his yard this week. It will make a lovely green spot when once the grass has started to grow.

—R. F. Vonada, Coburn's genial postmaster, popped into our sanctum on Tuesday forenoon for a pleasant chat. Call again, Bob.

—J. W. Snook had three windows cut in the western wall of his store building on Main street in order to get more light in the store room.

—"A stitch in time" often saves consumption. Down's Elixir used in time saves life. For sale by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—The Harry Sisters who are billed for this town on the 24th instant, will give entertainments at Woodward on the 21st and at Aaronsburg on the 22d.

—The three outlets of disease are the bowels, the skin and the kidneys. Regulate their action with the best purifying tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters.

—Several insurance agents are "doing" this town just now and forcibly remind our people that this week is the anniversary of last year's big fire in Millheim.

—The State Board of Health has made an appeal to citizens for pecuniary aid to the State Sanitary Convention, which convened in Philadelphia yesterday.

—The Lutheran congregation elected a new elder and a new deacon on Sunday afternoon. G. W. Harter was chosen for the former, and A. A. Frank for the latter position.

—There is no material change in J. B. Hooveman's general condition of health, though his illness is variable, he being at the point of death one day and much improved the next.

—Remarked by R. C. Joiner, of Allen, P. O. Hilldale Co., Mich: Nothing gave my rheumatism such quick relief as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—believe it infallible for rheumatism.

—Don't fail to read Mrs. Brumgard's advertisement at the head of this column, ladies, and bear in mind that she has the very head-gear you have been wanting so bad this spring.

—Maj. W. H. Dill, of Freeburg, Pa., Superintendent of public schools of Snyder county, died last week and was interred in the new cemetery at Freeburg.

—D. L. Zerby has the necessary plank on the ground and ready for a first-class sidewalk to be laid along his premises on Penn street. He expects to get at this work sometime this week yet.

—The brisk flouring mill of ——— Gingerich, at Oak Hall, was destroyed by fire on Monday morning about three o'clock. How the fire originated could not be learned. The mill was valued at $16,000.

—If you are a miserable sufferer with constipation, dyspepsia and biliousness seek relief at once in Simmons Liver Regulator. It does not require continual dosing, and costs but a trifle. It will cure you.

—Mr. Henry Keen, of Penn township, started on Monday afternoon on his extended western trip. He expects to visit nearly all the western states and will be absent the greater part of the summer.

—Costiveness is the primary cause of much disease. Dr. Henry Baxter's Mandrake Bitters will permanently cure costiveness. Every bottle warranted. Sold by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—A private letter from Mrs. Emma J. Tomlinson states that she likes her present place of residence, Aurora, Ill., very well, but has been obliged to nurse a sore foot for the last few weeks, which is getting better again.

—The Ladies' Mite Society of the Reformed church, Aaronsburg, will give an entertainment in the chapel of the new church on Saturday evening next. The doors are open to all, and a cordial invitation is extended.

—The Rescue Band, of Shamokin, recently honored their able conductor, Prof. W. T. Meyer, by naming their organization after him. The band numbers about 30 members and is now styled "Meyer's Rescue Band."

—Henry L. Dieffenbach, of Lock Haven, was appointed Associate Judge of Clinton county, by Goy. Pattison last Monday. He will take the place of W. W. Rankin, who resigned to accept the postmastership of that city.

—The painters finished their work on J. W. Snook's brick residence yesterday and it now presents a very handsome appearance and forms a creditable addition to Penn street. The job entitles the mechanics to much praise.

—Mr. A. B. Lucas, of Bellefonte, representing the Republican and Centre Democrat of that town, gave this office a call yesterday afternoon. He is out on a collecting tour for those two papers. It's a good business to be in, these times.

—The Journal Store is again cleaned up, rigged up and being rapidly filled up with new and attractive goods suited to the season. A full supply of French Tissue Paper, and all material necessary for making artificial flowers just received.

—We are informed that Mr. Jacob Dutweiler, of Penn township, lost a valuable cow last week one day. She bursted in the field where she was pasturing. A heifer belonging to Wm. H. Smith, also of Penn township, died in the same manner.

—In Henry & Johnson's Arnica and Oil Liniment is combined the curative properties of the different oils, with the healing qualities of Arnica. Good for man and animal. Every bottle guaranteed. For sale by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co.

—Sugar Valley leads off with the first picnic heard of this season. The Keystone Journal, Logansville, says, a party from Salona had a picnic at Sulphur Springs last Saturday a week ago, first of May. They may want some coal fire before May is past.

—Mr. John Stover and wife, of Painter, Mifflin county, were in town over Sunday, to visit his mother, Mrs. Margaret Stover. The old lady's health is not very good at present and she has been confined to her room at her daughter's residence, Mrs. Geo. Ulrich, for several weeks.

—On Monday evening the band serenaded Mr. Burd. McMullen, at his father's residence on Main street. Burd had the evening before married a Miss Alexander, from Spring Mills, which accounted for the band's compliments. The groom responded liberally and in his quiet and unostentatious way.

—THE only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from poisonous drugs and other offensive odors. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases when all other remedies have failed. It quickly cures cold in the head and catarral headache. Price 50 cents. 17-4t.

FARM FOR SALE.—The undersigned offer that certain tract of land, situate about two miles west of Madisonburg, and being part of the estate of Jeremiah Hoy, deceased, at private sale. It contains about 100 acres of cleared land, with a dwelling house and bank barn thereon erected; also about 45 acres of timberland. Altogether a very desirable farm Apply to or address —Will the Fourth of July, or rather the preceeding Saturday, be a red-letter day in Millheim, or will we sit with our hands folded in our laps and talking of Independence Day as other towns celebrate it? Referred to the H. & L. boys, or to the new G. A. R. post or to the band.

—An ominous report that the town was to be laid in ashes on last Saturday night, resulted in frightening nearly all the women and children in town and many of them had a sleepless night in consequence of it. Of course the report proved only empty talk, but we say the less talk of that kind the better.

—At a meeting of the Evangelical Ladies' Aid Society of Millheim, last Saturday evening, the annual election of officers took place with the following result: Pres. Mrs. Adolph Miller; Vice Pres. Mrs. E. C. Campbell; Sec. Mrs. H. H. Weiser; Asst. Sec. Mrs. J. G. M. Swengel; Treas. Mrs. W. R. Henney.

—Do not forget that next Monday a week the Harry Sisters, three precocious little girls, will give a musical and literary entertainment for the benefit of the Ladies' Mite Society of the M. E. church. We assure our readers that it is a rare treat to see and hear them, considering the tender ages of the girls. Might as well make up your mind to go.

—A balcony on the second story of Musser & Smith's new hardware building on Main street would be a delightful place for our band on fine summer evenings, and we are sure our town people would enjoy listening to open air concerts given from this elevated place. What say the proprietors of the building and the band men to such a bargain?

—Cohen's advertising wagon going through town on Tuesday afternoon raised some excitement. It announced in glaring letters that this is his last week in Millheim and that he is selling out at cost. To make the advertisement as loud as possible the horse, wagon and drivers were all covered with bells, that made noise enough to scare a ghost out of his boots.

—An exchange says that the time to plant corn, according to the Indian custom, is when the leaf of the white oak is as large as a young squirrel's ear, and the rapid developement of the leaves the past few days has caused the leaf of the white oak to attain the proportions desired; therefore, the proper time has arrived for corn planting.

—Owing to the rain last Friday evening, which prevented the Brushvalley Post of the G. A. R. from coming over, it was impossible to effect an organization of a post in this place at that time. The veterans of this place and Aaronsburg, however, had turned out strong in spite of the wet weather and a meeting was held in the Odd Fellows' hall on Penn street. A few of the G. A. R. men from Bellefonte were on hand, among them Commander Austin Curtin. The work of organization was postponed until next Monday evening and if the weather be fair then a successful meeting is expected.

—Our readers in Aaronsburg and this vicinity will be particularly interested in the following item of news clipped from last week's Shamokin Herald:

Messrs. Meyer, Musser & Co. purchased the general store of Mr. George W. Fagely, corner Independence and Liberty street, Wednesday noon and took immediate possession. They will renovate the room, add a large stock of new goods, and leave nothing undone to win custom. The firm is composed of Prof. W. T. Meyer, so well and favorably known as teacher of music, and his brothers-in-law, Messrs. D. K. Musser and W. H. Phillips, both of Aaronsburg, Pa. Prof. Meyer will continue his music class and the store will be in charge of the old clerks and Mr. Musser.

—Mr. J. B. Solt, of Centre Hall, is making arrangements to erect a mill for the purpose of manufacturing the Heberling automatic slat fence, which in the language of the business world, "is destined to succeed all others." The fence produced is handsome, durable and strong and will outlast any other kind, while it is very cheap. One of the Heberling machines will make 300 rods of fence in a day of 8 hours. The fence consists of wooden slabs firmly bound together by the strongest of steel wire. It must be seen to be appreciated. Mr. Solt has orders for the manufacture of several thousand rods of fence.—Daily News.

We understand that Mr. George Peters, of Millheim, has also received machinery for the manufacture of slat fence several weeks ago and is prepared to run out any amount of it.

—West Susquehanna Classis will meet in annual session in St. Peter's Reformed Church, Aaronsburg, on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at 7.30 p. m., when Rev. W. H. Groh, the retiring president, will preach the opening sermon. It will continue in session over the following Sunday. Missionary services will be held on Thursday evening, on which occasion the Rev's. Dotterer, DeLong and Wolf will deliver addresses. There will be Divine services on Friday evening, Saturday afternoon and evening and on Sunday morning and evening. At the Sunday morning service the Lord's Supper will be celebrated, and in the afternoon a children's service will be held, on which occasion the Rev's. Haas, Gerhard and Brown will be the speakers. All are cordially invited to attend not only the meetings for religious services, but also the morning and afternoon sessions of classis, Pastor loci, IMPORTANT.—The board of officers of the Millheim H. & L. Company, consisting of Vice Pres. C. W. Hartman, Treas. A. A. Frank, and Sec. R. A. Bumiller, wish to give notice to the members of the company that their term of office expired last Monday and they urgently request a meeting in the town hall next Monday evening at 8 o'clock, sharp, for the purpose of electing new officers. Other business of importance also requires a full attendance of the company and it is hoped that all the members who may be in town on said evening, [May 17,] will be on hand.

BURNED OUT.—"The Housekeeper," Minneapolis, Minn., was burned out for the second time in six years, April 12th, and a part of its large subscription list destroyed. Several of the ladies employed barely escaped with their lives.

Such of our readers as do not receive the May number promptly, should write to the publishers, giving full address, time when subscription was made, and length of time paid for. The May number will then be forwarded and the name restored to the list.

—MANY CHILDREN suffer from day to day; puny, pallid, fretful and feverish, variable appetite and restless sleep, finally die, and their parents never suspecting the real cause, that the little sufferers' stomachs are infested and eaten through with worms. Twenty-five cents invested in a box of McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders would save the doctor's bills and the patient's life. Entirely vegetable. Easy and pleasant to take. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers.

Neighboring News.

AARONSBURG.

Rev. Swengel [Evangelical] preached his first regular sermon here on last Sunday. The audience was large and the sermon good.

Ed. Kister has broken ground for a new house in the northwestern part of town, on the public road leading to Weaver's saw mill.

H. H. and F. J. Weaver are back from York State, where they had been to buy a carload of Holstein cattle.

A few lads from Millheim with a like number of lassies from our burg, spend an occasional Sabbath afternoon at the head of our water main in the mountains north of town. Rather early in the season.

[Seems to us this hits one of the Journal compositors. How is it Sanford?—Ed.]

Some of our long-winded preachers could lighten their labors considerably by reading "Spurgeon on Verbosity," and, of course, follow the teachings of that noted divine. We refer you to the Lutheran Observer of May 7th, '86.

The Aaronsburg Centennial—well, what about it? The matter is presented to us almost daily. A few, in our judgement, are getting too querimonious. Oh yes, you want to come here and enjoy a good dinner with us. Well, we will see about it. No action has been taken yet by our citizens.

For the more distant readers of the Journal we will announce through its columns the death and burial of Mrs. Samuel Schoch, of Mifflinburg, Pa., formerly and for many years a resident of this place. We are aware of the fact that many Journal readers were very well acquainted with Mrs. Schoch, therefore we make this announcement.

A rumor reached us a few days ago that the laboring classes of our sister town, Millheim, are about to enter upon a strike for eight hours' work and ten hours' pay. Well, Mr. Editor, if you anticipate a riot, see to it that an order is issued for the Aaronsburg militia. They are all captains in a riot, wooden guns you know. ANOTHER.

COBURN.

News the past week has been scarce.

F. P. Barker is finishing the addition to his house to be rented for a dwelling.

John Stonebraker is building an addition to his property.

A man by the name of Baker has the lumber hauled for a building which he is putting up on part of John Stonebraker's lot. It is to be used as a drug store, we are informed.

S. Grenninger has about completed an addition of some twenty feet to his store building.

Mr. Andrew Stover has begun the erection of a dwelling house next to his residence. And so the improvements in our village go on.

Constable Geary was busy on Saturday evening bringing six or seven parties from Paddy Mountain tunnel to appear before 'Squire Gettig to answer a charge of forcible entrance and detainer. The parties were bound over in $1000 bail for their appearance at court.

Mr. A. J. Katherman, of Mifflinburg, spent the Sabbath with his son in-law, W. H. Kremer.

W. H. Corman and family, of Rebersburg, purchased through tickets from Coburn to Valley Falls, Kansas, this (Monday) morning, and left on the 8 o'clock train, via Bellefonte.

The merchants through our valley must be doing a good business, judging from the amount of goods we see unloaded daily at our railroad station.

VALE.

—IT IS now conceded on all sides that there is not and never has been a remedy of such remarkable efficacy as Curtis' Carmelite Cordial, in curing cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, cholera morbus, summer complaints, cramps, pains in the bowels, or any intestinal irritation whatever, a single dose brings remarkable relief and a single bottle is guaranteed to cure any case or money refunded. A remarkable pain killer and valuable household remedy.

SPRING MILLS.

John D. Long, one of our merchants, started for the far West on Monday morning. He expects to stay about six months in which time he intends to visit all the western states.

T. B. Jamison, who has been traveling salesman for Chase & Co's nursery for some years, was called to Philadelphia by that firm to attend to more important business for them.

Rev Leidy, P. E., preached in the M. E. church on last Saturday evening and Sunday morning. He is an able speaker and his sermons are plain and to the point.

The creamery at this place seems to have taken new life again. The stock is all sold and the company have organized and are ready for business. The location has been selected and work will soon commence.

The railroad company has put on a work train to repair the road, with its headquarters at this place. Quite a number of our men have been employed as hands on said train.

G. A. Runk, Esq., intends to start for California by the latter part of this week and expects to remain for a few months to look after his business in that state.

Rumor has it that the gentlemanly clerk in Grenoble's store, Mr. Roesman, has taken unto himself a wife.

John H. Bibby, we understand, contemplates erecting a distillery in this place.

President Cleveland's Coming Marriage to Miss Folsom.

An Uncle of the Young Lady Confirms the Report.

A Boston dispatch says: Mr. H. F. Harmon, a well-known flour merchant of this city, is a maternal uncle of Miss Frankie Folsom, who is believed to be the bride-elect of President Cleveland. A correspondent asked him if there is any doubt that President Cleveland is going to marry Miss Folsom.

'Frankly speaking,' said he, 'there is none. It was not our intention to announce the engagement until sometime before the wedding, but unfortunately it was made public by a breach of confidence on the part of friends in Buffalo. I have just been writing a letter to Miss Frankie,' he added. 'It is now nearly time for her to be preparing to return home.

'Do you suppose she has heard of the rumors in circulation on this side the Atlantic?'

'I have no doubt she has learned something. I was engaged in writing her, as you entered, that the cat was out of the bag, and giving her a little of the gossip she may expect to hear on returning home. We frequently receive letters from her about the trip. She writes otten and her letters are particularly bright. She has a brilliant, descriptive style and is an enthusiastic observer. The rumor that the expenses of her European trip were paid by Mr. Cleveland has no foundation in truth, and I do not see how it ever originated.

'It was Miss Folsom's intention to announce the engagement in due time before the wedding, but to her, as well as the entire family, the premature statements concerning it are a great surprise. As I have said, there were but few let into the secret. At last accounts Miss Folsom was enjoythe best of health. She enjoyed the visit to Italy very much, the only drawback being her mother's illness in Genoa, where she was taken down with a fever. Miss Folsom's acquaintance with President Cleveland forms a romantic story.

'Frankie at a very early age gave promise of great beauty. She was loved by every one who knew her. She was frank in manner, warm-hearted and very lovely. When scarcely knee high she was particularly friendly to 'Uncle Cleve,' as she called him, and in after years held him as one of her dearest friends and advisers. Then came her father's death with its attendant changes. I have no doubt if he had lived he would have been much gratified at the marriage.'

'When did President Cleveland commence his matrimonial attentions?' was asked

'I can scarcely answer that,' was the reply. 'He was very friendly disposed toward Miss Folsom from the time she was a child; but about three years ago his attentions commenced to assume a more serious aspect. Although very reserved in manner, it was evident he now cared far more for the woman than he had in former years for the child. When Miss Folsom and her mother visited the White House last year there was considerable talk about a possible engagement, but not until the announcement of the marriage was recently made was any further report in circulation. I think I may safely say you can travel a good many miles and see a great many people before you will find a young lady of greater beauty and accomplishments than Miss Folsom. I have no doubt it will be very embarrassing for her to know of the thousand rumors that are circulated about her, especially if she happens to see any of the newspaper cuts that have been printed over her name.'

A Correct Map.

"How far is it from the new capitol to the Colorado river?" asked Hostetter McGinnis of Gus De Smith.

"According to the city map it is a mile, but I think it is much longer. I've walked it, and it took me longer than it should take to walk a mile."

"That discrepancy is easily explained. The city map doesn't go out of its way to take drinks at all the saloons between the two places. It isn't that kind of a map."—Siftings.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken by your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is inestimable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant so the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world Price 25 cents a bottle.

He Got His Customer.

The following story is told of an enterprising New York jobber: The merchant in question, having heard of the arrival of a country trader who was known to be a large purchaser and of unquestionable credit, was resolved to get him to visit his establishment, and, once there, he felt sure he could secure him as a customer. He accordingly sent out one of his drummers, of whom he had quite a number, adapted to every taste and disposition. The one sent, however, returned without success. No. 2 was dispatched, with no better result, and again No. 3, and so on until all had gone and come back without their man. The merchant now determined to go himself, and finding that brandy and water and free tickets to the theatre were of no avail, for the country trader did not take one or go to the other, he was reduced to the necessity of employing a ruse, which as the sequel shows, was simple as well as effectual. On taking his departure after a pleasant interview the merchant took care to commit the "mistake" of taking the trader's hat instead of his own. Next morning, as was expected, the merchant received a prompt visit at his store from the country trader, who came to look up the hat which he supposed had been hurridly exchanged. This was what the merchant wanted, and through this means sold a good bill of goods and secured a regular customer.

LIVER REGULATOR

For all Diseases of the Liver, Kidneys, Stomach and Spleen.

This purely vegetable preparation, now so celebrated as a Family Medicine, originated in the South in 1828. It acts gently on the Bowels and Kidneys and corrects the action of the Liver, and is, therefore, the best preparatory medicine, whatever the sickness may prove to be. In all common diseases it will, unassisted by any other medicine, effect a speedy cure.

The Regulator is safe to administer in any condition of the system, and under no circumstances can it do harm. It will invigorate like a glass of wine, but is no intoxicating beverage to lead to intemperance; will promote digestion, dissipate headache, and generally tone up the system. The dose is small, not unpleasant, and its virtues undoubted.

No loss of time, no interruption or stoppage of business while taking the Regulator.

Children complaining of Colic, Headache, or Sick Stomach, a teaspoonful or more will give relief.

If taken occasionally by patients exposed to MALARIA, will expel the poison and protect them from attack.

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and have never been able to put up a vegetable compound that would, like Simmons Liver Regulator, promptly and effectively move the Liver to action, and at the same time aid (instead of weakening) the digestive and assimilative powers of the system. DOWNS' ELIXIR.
N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR
For the cure of Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
CONSUMPTION
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.

QUAKER
Is the Best
TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has Slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its pungency, aroma, taste, strength and purenes. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.
